I have been with CCDDR for eight years. I was a support coordinator for much of that time, which I loved. I enjoyed being able to help clients access resources and services that would help them live a better life. I loved seeing someone access something new that changed their lives. I also really enjoy seeing when clients are able to learn a new skill. As a supervisor, I love seeing my team being able to do these same things for clients. I like seeing my team develop and learn new skills or access new resources for their clients.
